* Please note the destination you have chosen is in a fairly remote location. Therefore, accommodation standards / facilities and service levels may not quite be as you would expect in comparison to western standards. For example, internet connections may be very slow or non-existent, mobile reception may be sporadic or non-existent, televisions if present in your room may not have many choices for channel selection. Often choices for fresh food are limited or hard to come by due to transportation issues and things often happen on "island time". We remind you to bear these considerations in mind when traveling to remote destinations to ensure your expectations are on par with what can feasibly be delivered. It is also these considerations that make your chosen destination so special and different.
